Odom says ethanol signing historic event

Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Bob Odom called today a historical day for Louisiana following the Governor's signing of HB 685, which sets minimum standards for ethanol and biodiesel use in fuel.

"This marks the day when Louisiana can be proud to be number one in something. We are now the leader among Southern states in moving toward alternative fuels and lessening our dependence on foreign oil,"

Odom said. "This law paves the way for a greener environment, new markets for agricultural commodities, job growth and economic development."

Odom commended Gov. Kathleen Blanco for not being swayed by misinformation in recent days.

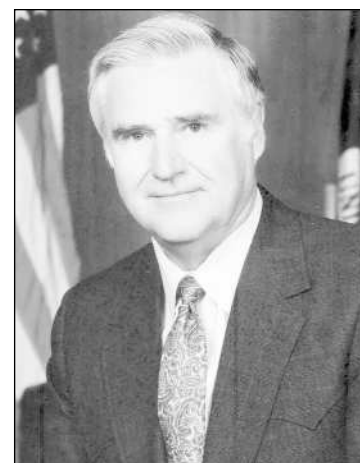

"Gov. Blanco remained loyal to her earlier commitment to this piece of legislation after meticulously going over the facts. In the end, she let her vision for this state guide her decision making," Odom said. "I am going to continue working with the Governor's Office and the Weights and Measures Commission to write rules and regulations that are fair to consumers and do not cause an increase in gas prices. I have made a commitment that we will delay implementation of this law if it costs consumers more at the pump."

Odom said he envisions Louisiana's gas stations looking similar to those in Brazil where consumers have a choice between several fuel types.

"Brazil is almost completely energy self sufficient. They are the world leader in ethanol. When you pull up to a pump there, you can choose a 10 percent ethanol blend, E85 (an 85 percent blend) or regular gasoline," Odom said. "The consumer has a choice, and that's what I want here in Louisiana. The consumer should have a choice."
